

PACIFIC CONSERVATION BIOLOGY

Volume 24 • Issue 4 • 2018

CONTENTS

SPECIAL ISSUE PAPERS

Editorial: Why I have come to care about conservation and restoration in peopled landscapes H. U. Wittmer	339
Motivations for conservation action in peopled landscapes D. F. Shanahan, J. E. Ledington and F. J. F. Maseyk	341
Animal reintroductions in peopled landscapes: moving towards urban-based species restorations in New Zealand Y. van Heezik and P. J. Seddon	349
Initiating a conflict with wildlife – the reintroduction and feeding of kākā, Wellington City, New Zealand W. Linklater, H. Chapman, A. Gregor, R. Calder-Flynn, J. Gouws, O. Quigan, A. Rustandi, J. Brian-Molitaviti and Y. Ying	360
An overview of introduced predator management in inhabited landscapes J. C. Russell and M. C. Stanley	371
Using community engagement and biodiversity surveys to inform decisions to control invasive species: a case study of yellow crazy ants in Atafu, Tokelau M. A. M. Gruber, R. J. Pierce, A. R. Burne, L. Naseri-Sale and P. J. Lester	379
More than just the animals: opportunities and costs of reintroducing threatened black-footed rock-wallabies to remote Indigenous land L. Ireland, M. Zabek, C. Galindez-Silva, S. Weir, R. West, L. Olds, B. Backhouse, P. Copley and J. Read	388
Conservation challenges and benefits of multispecies reintroductions to a national park – a case study from New South Wales, Australia R. D. Pedler, R. S. West, J. L. Read, K. E. Moseby, M. Letnic, D. A. Keith, K. D. Leggett, S. R. Ryall and R. T. Kingsford	397
Conservation and restoration in peopled landscapes in Oceania: opportunities and challenges H. U. Wittmer, V. Anton, M. A. M. Gruber, L. Ireland, W. Linklater, J. C. Russell and D. F. Shanahan	409
REGULAR PAPERS
Coal grunters shift benthic objects to access macroinvertebrates in a headwater stream B. C. Ebner, J. A. Donaldson and D. Starrs	417
Coral colonies in the eastern tropical Pacific: predation by Acanthaster cf. solaris J. C. Rodríguez-Vilalobos and A. Ayala-Bocos	419
Book reviews	421